Explore the real charm and character of natural hardwood.

As unique and as individual as you are.

Knots

An integral part of timber, knots give real character to your hardwood floor.

Knots can vary in size and shape depending on the wood grade.

Higher, prime grades will have smaller and less obvious knots, the lower, rustic grades will contain larger knot sizes.

Knots can also have a matching colour filler applied to enhance this feature.

Sapwood

Generally lighter in colour and located towards the outside of the tree.

Sapwood is the youngest part of the tree, as trees age the inner areas will contain less sap and will feature fewer natural variations in the plank.

Lower, rustic wood grades will contain more sap than higher grades.

Blending planks that display sapwood in a random way can enhance this natural feature beautifully.

Colour variation

Variations in colour occur naturally in wood, and used well can bring warmth and character to your home. Higher grades contain little colour variation, lower grades contain more variation.

The amount of colour variation is a purely personal choice, and will depend on the customers own preferences.
